

Work is Love Made Visible - 5/1/1999

You'll never achieve real success unless you like what you are doing.

Your chances for success will be directly proportional to the degree of pleasure you derive from what you do.

If you have a job you hate, face the fact squarely and get out.

Work is reward, not punishment.

If you enjoy what you do, you'll be successful.

If you don't enjoy what you do, you won't be successful.

Your success in any occupation depends on your enjoyment.

Loving your work will make all the difference.

Success in its highest and noblest form calls for peace of mind, enjoyment, and happiness.

This comes only when you find the work that you like best.

You don't pay the price for success.

You enjoy the price for success.
